TOM G. SIMMONS MAKES STATEMENT

Former Medina County Citizen Tells Why
He Killed C. A. Bengston at Lightner, April 18th

PLEA OF UNWRITTEN LAW

Sheriff Puett of Concho county, brought T. G. Simmons to Ballinger Friday afternoon and placed him in the Ballinger jail to await the examining trial in which Simmons will answer to the killing of C. A. Bengston.

The killing occurred Thursday morning at Lightner, a little station on the Frisco, south of Eden, in Concho county. After shooting Bengston to death with a single barrel shot gun, Simmons telephoned to Paint Rock and requested that the sheriff come and get him, and he went to Eden and surrendered to the officer.

When called on in the local jail by a Ledger reporter Saturday morning, Mr. Simmons was brooding considerably over his trouble, and between sobs, with tears flowing down his cheeks, he told in detail how the killing occurred and what lead up to it. He stated that he was the father of three children, was 56 years old and never was in jail before in his life and never had any business in court before.

According to the story as told by the unfortunate man he shot Bengston because he had ruined his home and the life of his daughter, who is now an inmate of the Carlsbad sanitarium near San Angelo. Following is the substance of the sad story as told by Simmons.

The man killed, owned considerable land near Lightner, and employed Simmons to work for him last year. In September Simmons had considerable sickness in his family, three or four of his children being down sick at one time, one child, a daughter, 18, dying and his wife came very near dying with pneumonia. Simmons became hard pressed for money, and having a daughter that was in bad health, he made an effort to get her in the Carlsbad sanitarium. Dr. McKnight in charge of the sanitarium, wrote Simmons that he had an opening for his daughter. Simmons did not have the money to send his daughter to the sanitarium, so he went to Bengston to borrow it, and Bengston agreed to let him have ten dollars, stating that he did not have the money at home but that he had it in Brady. On the day that the young lady was to start on her journey to the sanitarium, Bengston went to Brady, going down on the train that leaves at one o'clock with the understanding that he would get the money for Simmons and would meet the train that leaves Lightner at seven o'clock when it arrived at Brady and supply the needed cash, which he did.

When the train upon which the young lady was traveling arrived at Brady, Bengston met the young lady and after buying her ticket to Brownwood and checking her trunk he gave her the remainder of the ten dollars, and told her good-bye. It seems that Bengston did not leave the train after telling the young lady good-bye, but went into another car after the train left Brady for Brownwood, he returned to the car where the young lady was, and traveled with her to Brownwood, and going with her to a hotel, committed the crime responsible for the killing.

The father, through friends, learned that Bengston accompanied his daughter to Brownwood, and rumors reached him that caused him to make the trip to Carlsbad last Sunday to see his daughter and the daughter told the story of her ruined life. The father returned to his home with his mind fully made up to kill the man who had ruined his home. When he reached home he learned that Bengston was in Brady, and learning when he was expected to return, he secured his gun, a single barrel shot gun and went to the postoffice and waited for the arrival of the train. The train arrived at Lightner at ten o'clock and Simmons met Bengston in the road a few minutes later and with gun drawn, he said: "I've got you treed and I'm going to kill you," and he shot Bengston, as Bengston turned to run. The first charge of shot struck Bengston in the arm. As quick as Simmons could place another shell in the gun he shot Bengston again. By the time the second shot was fired Bengston was perhaps thirty or forty feet from Simmons, trying to make his escape. He fell when the second charge of shot struck him, and Simmons loaded his gun the third time and kept going towards Bengston. By the time he got within a few feet of Bengston the man had gotten up and was advancing towards Simmons, when Simmons stepped back and fired the shot that ended the man's life.

This is the story as told by the man in jail, and is no doubt some of the facts that will be brought out by the defense in the trial of the case.

Quite a number of letters were exchanged between Bengston and the young lady after she went to Carlsbad. The man killed leaves a wife but no children, and at the time of the killing the wife was visiting in Travis county. Deceased had been living in Concho county about four years and the Simmons family moved to that county a little over a year ago.

Telephone message received today stated that relatives of the man in jail would arrive here tomorrow to help him in the trouble. Simmons states that he has employed Judge Hayne P. Young of Paint Rock, to represent him.

A daughter of Simmons passed through Ballinger Friday at noon en route to Carlsbad to be with the daughter who is sick in the sanitarium at that place.—Ballinger Daily Ledger, March 5, 1915.

An examining was held since the above was published and Mr. Simmons granted bail. He is now at his home at Lightner.—The Melvin Rustler.

Upper Hondo Doings.

Cold weather has prevailed here for some time. Wednesday of last week, we had rain, snow and sleet, and since then it has been very cold. Ice formed on the water Saturday and Sunday morning. Saturday morning at sun-up the mercury registered 28 degrees. Prospects for fruit is very slim.

On last Tuesday Mr. John Graham and Miss Linnie Marquis were happily married in Hondo, Judge A. M. Lamm tying the knot. Miss Linnie is the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Marquis. Miss Linnie will be missed very much, especially by the Sunday school, as she played the organ so we could have good music and singing. The happy young couple have gone to Utopia to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Scheile made a flying trip to Hondo Thursday.

Telephone ringing can be heard in most of the houses now, and by that means we hope to be able to send more news to the Anvil Herald hereafter.

Messrs. J. G. Heyen, V. A. Crow and W. N. Saathoff of Hondo were up here to enjoy the mountain air, but Prof. Saathoff said it was a little too fresh for him up here, so they left Saturday morning early.

Chas. Pressier Jr., of Comfort is here helping his brother, Ernest, plant his crop and Charlie is also visiting a particular friend of his.

Tarpley now has a truck line via Bandera to San Antonio making regular trips. The next will be an inter-urban line between this place and San Antonio. We are working for it, and we will get it, too.

SENATOR F. C. WEINERT TO SPEAK HERE TODAY

HE AND MR. BOB TAYLOR WILL ADDRESS THE PEOPLE
ON THE PERMANENT WAREHOUSE AND CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING LAW

AT 2 O'CLOCK AT COURT HOUSE

Hons. F. C. Weinert and Bob Taylor will address the citizens of Hondo and vicinity on the Permanent Warehouse and Co-Operative Marketing Law.

Law at the court house at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon. These gentlemen are thoroughly conversant with the subjects they will discuss, and being gifted speakers will not only entertain but will instruct you on some of the most important problems that are confronting our farmers today.

There is no denying the fact that conditions confronting our farmers are rather discouraging. With the prices of everything they buy constantly advancing in price and the principal money product of their farms—cotton—selling at a price below actual cost of production, creates a condition that must be remedied if our farmers are to become prosperous, and nothing will aid in accomplishing this end more than the Permanent Warehouse and Co-Operative Marketing Law.

To the prosperity of the farmers must we look for prosperity in all other lines of business, consequently people in all walks of life—the merchant, the banker, professional men, etc.—are as vitally interested in the well-being of the agricultural classes as are the farmers themselves, and should make it a point to be at the court house tomorrow at 2:00 o'clock and hear measures that will relieve the farmers of some burdens now borne by them discussed by gentlemen thoroughly familiar with these problems.

Remember the hour, 2:00 o'clock this afternoon, at the court house.

Miss Pike Entertains.

Miss Christine Pike entertained Friday, March 12, in honor of Miss Traylor of Edna, only the members of the "Triple F." and their gentleman friends were present. The room was beautifully decorated with purple and white (wedding colors) and the purple and white scheme was carried out both in refreshments and prizes. Forty-two was the game of the evening, and after several games were played, delicious refreshments of grape juice sherbet and cake were served. Lilacs were the plate favors, then forty-two continued until a late hour.

Mr. T. Saathoff received the gentleman prize, a purple and white tie, Miss B. Traylor of Edna, Texas, the ladies prize, purple and white chamois, and the "boobies" went to Miss Bennie Hurt and Mr. Milton Schmitt.

After compliments to the hostess and good-byes to Miss Traylor each departed to their homes with long impressions of the purple and white party.

Road Bond Issue Carries.

The proposition to issue $40,000 in bonds for the purpose of building good roads in precinct No. 2 was overwhelmingly carried at the election Tuesday. Following is the result of the voting at the various polling places in the precinct: Castroville, 180 for, 1 against; Lacoste, 72 for, 9 against; Riomedina, 29 for, 6 against; Cliff, 21 for, none against; Dunlay, 16 for, 33 against. Total, 318 for, 49 against.

Barn Burned.

The barn of Mr. Wm. Finger, near D'Hanis, was burned last Saturday night, together with several hundred bushels of corn and a large amount of other feed stuff. Loss on building and contents approximately $800.00.

WE TAKE GOOD CARE OF HUDSON CARS

TO neglect a motor-car invariably means dissatisfaction.

Entire enjoyment of an automobile comes through a GOOD car kept good by GOOD SERVICE.

Hudson owners are a contented lot of people. Their cars are always in the best of running order. They use their cars every day. They pay practically nothing for upkeep aside from fuel, oil and tires.

Our Perpetual Service System goes with every new Hudson car we sell.

It is the reason you see so many Hudson Sixes on the streets. It is because of this Service System that Hudson cars are increasing so rapidly in popularity.

If you would like an entirely new idea of motor-car satisfaction—if you would like to own a car that always will be in condition for daily use—come and see us.

Good News.
Many Hondo Readers Have Heard It and Profit Thereby.
"Good news travels fast," and the many bad back sufferers in this vicinity are glad to learn where relief may be found. Many a lame, weak and aching back is no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands upon thousands of people are telling the good news of their experience with this tested remedy. Here is an example worth reading:
Mrs. L. Wayt, 625 N. Getty St., Uvalde, Texas, says: "I suffered from backaches and headaches and my kidneys were inactive. At night I was restless, and mornings I felt all tired out. A neighbor told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and I at once commenced using them. They acted as a tonic to my entire system and made me well. I am always ready to speak in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills, because I know how they act."
Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Wayt had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

To The Housewife.
Madam, if your husband is like most men he expects you to look after the health of yourself and children. Coughs and colds are the most common of the minor ailments and are most likely to lead to serious diseases. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when it has a cold. If you will inquire into the merits of the various remedies that are recommended for coughs and colds, you will find that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy stands high in the estimation of people who use it. It is prompt and effectual, pleasant and safe to take, which are qualities especially to be desired when a medicine is intended for children. For sale by All Dealers.

SYNOPSIS

Glendon, innocent of the world's ways, goes to San Francisco and is matched with "Roughhouse Kelly."

He whips Kelly and other boxers so easily that he is called "One Punch Glendon." He meets the Flying Dutchman.

Glendon wins again. He nears the top in pugilism. His manager, Stubener, engages in crooked ring practices, unknown to Glendon.

Through Maud Sangster, a reporter, Glendon first learns of these crooked practices and first suspects Stubener.

Glendon tells her he will stop at no wrong in the eighteenth instead of the sixteenth round of a forthcoming fight, sixteen being the secret information of the betting syndicate.

Maud attends the battle. Despite Glendon's promise Powers is apparently knocked out in the sixteenth round. Glendon visits Maud.

"Well," he demanded, and she thrilled anew at the compellingness of him. She stood up, and her hand went out to his.

"I believe you," she said. "And I am glad, most glad."

It was a longer grip than she had anticipated. He looked at her with eyes that burned and to which her own unconsciously answered back.

Never was there such a man, was her thought. Her eyes dropped first, and his followed, so that, as before, both gazed at the clasped hands.

He made a movement of his whole body toward her, impulsive and involuntary, as if to gather her to him, then checked himself abruptly with an unmistakable effort. She saw it and felt the pull of his hand as it started to draw her to him.

And to her amazement she felt the desire to yield, the desire almost overwhelmingly to be drawn into the strong circle of those arms. And had he compelled she knew that she would not have refrained.

She was almost dizzy when he checked himself and, with a closing of his fingers that half crushed hers, dropped her hand, almost flung it from him.

"God," he breathed; "you were made for me!"

He turned partly away from her, sweeping his hand to his forehead. She knew she would hate him forever if he dared one stammered word of apology or explanation.

But he seemed to have the way always of doing the right thing where she was concerned. She sank into her chair, and he into another, first drawing it around so as to face her across the corner of the desk.

"I spent last night in a Turkish bath," he said. "I sent for an old broken down bruiser. He was a friend of my father in the old days. I knew there couldn't be a thing about the ring he didn't know, and I made him talk."

He turned partly away from her, sweeping his hand to his forehead. She knew she would hate him forever if he dared one stammered word of apology or explanation.

"That's Stubener's work," he explained. "It was programmed months ago. But I don't care. I'm heading for the mountains. I've quit."

She glanced at the unfinished interview on the desk and sighed.

"How lovely men are," she said. "Masters of destiny. They do as they please."

"From what I've heard," he interrupted, "you've done pretty much as you please. It's one of the things I like about you. And what has struck me hard from the first was the way you and I understand each other."

He broke off and looked at her with burning eyes.

"Well, the ring did one thing for me," he went on. "It made me acquainted with you. And when you find the one woman there's just one thing to do—take her in your two hands and don't let go. Come on, let us start for the mountains."

It had come with the suddenness of a thunderclap, and yet she felt that "I don't dare," she said in a whisper.

she had been expecting it. Her heart was beating up and almost choking her in a strangely delicious way. Here at least was the primitive and the simple with a vengeance. Then, too, it seemed a dream. Such things did not take place in modern newspaper offices. Love could not be made in such fashion; it only so occurred on the stage and in novels.

He had arisen and was holding out both hands to her.

"I don't dare," she said in a whisper, half to herself. "I don't dare."

And thereat she was stung by the quick contempt that flashed in his eyes but that swiftly changed to open incredulity.

"You'd dare anything you wanted," he was saying. "I know that. It's not a case of dare, but of want. Do you want?"

She had arisen and was now swaying as if in a dream. It flashed into her mind to wonder if it were hypnotism.

She wanted to glance about her at the familiar objects of the room in order to identify herself with reality, but she could not take her eyes from his. Nor did she speak.

He had stepped beside her. His hand was on her arm, and she leaned toward him involuntarily.

It was all part of the dream, and it was no longer hers to question anything. It was the great dare.

He was right. She could dare what she wanted, and she did want. He was helping her into her jacket. She was thrusting the hat pins through her hair.

And even as she realized it, she found herself walking beside him through the opened door.

The "Flight of the Duchess" and "The Statue and the Bust" darted through her mind. Then she remembered "Waring."

"What's become of Waring?" she murmured.

"Land travel or sea faring?" he murmured back.

And to her this kindred sufficient note was a vindication of her madness.

At the entrance of the building he raised his hand to call a taxi, but was stopped by her touch on his arm.

"Where are we going?" she breathed.

"To the ferry. We've just time to catch that Sacramento train."

"But I can't go this way," she protested. "I haven't even a change of handkerchiefs."

He held up his hand again before replying.

"You can shop in Sacramento. We'll get married there and catch the night overland north. I'll arrange everything by telegraph from the train."

As the cab drew to the curb she looked quickly about her at the familiar street and the familiar throng, then, with almost a flurry of alarm, into Glendon's face.

"I don't know a thing about you," she said.

"We know everything about each other," was his answer.

She felt the support and urge of his arms and lifted her foot to the step.

The next moment the door had closed, he was beside her and the cab was heading down Market street.

He passed his arm around her, drew her close and kissed her. When next she glimpsed his face she was certain that it was dyed with a faint blush.

"I've heard there was an art in kissing," he stammered. "I don't know anything about it myself, but I'll learn. You see, you're the first woman I ever kissed."

CHAPTER X.

WHERE a jagged peak of rock thrust above the vast virgin forest reclined a man and a woman. Beneath them, on the edge of the trees, were tethered two horses. Behind each saddle were a pair of small saddlebags.

The trees were monotonously huge. Towering hundreds of feet into the air, they ran from eight to ten and twelve feet in diameter. Many were much larger.

All morning they had toiled up the divide through this unbroken forest, and this peak of rock had been the first spot where they could get out of the forest in order to see the forest.

Beneath them and away, far as they could see, lay range upon range of haze-empurpled mountains. There was no end to these ranges. They rose one behind another to the dim, distant skyline, where they faded away with a vague promise of unending extension beyond.

There were no clearings in the forest. North, south, east and west, untouched, unbroken, it covered the land with its mighty growth.

They lay, feasting their eyes on the sight, her hand clasped in one of his, for this was their honeymoon, and these were the redwoods of Mendocino.

Across from Shasta they had come, with horses and saddlebags, and down through the wilds of the coast counties, and they had no plan except to continue until some other plan entered their heads.

They were roughly dressed—she in travel stained khaki, he in overalls and woolen shirt. The latter was open at the sunburned neck, and in his hugeness he seemed a fit dweller among the forest giants, while for her, as a dweller with him, there were no signs of aught else but happiness.

"Well, Big Man," she said, propping herself up on an elbow to gaze at him, "it is more wonderful than you promised. And we are going through it together."

"And there's a lot of the rest of the world we'll go through together," he answered, shifting his position so as to get her hand in both of his.

"But not till we've fished with this," she urged. "I seem never to grow tired of the big woods—and of you."

He slid effortlessly into a sitting posture and gathered her into his arms.

"Oh, you lover!" she whispered. "And I had given up hope of finding such a one."

"And I never hoped at all. I must just have known all the time that I was going to find you. Glad?"

Her answer was a soft pressure where her hand rested on his neck, and for long minutes they looked out over the great woods and dreamed.

"You remember I told you how I ran away from the red haired school-teacher? That was the first time I saw this country. I was on foot, but forty or fifty miles a day was play for me. I was a regular Indian."

"I wasn't thinking about you then. Game was pretty scarce in the red woods, but there was plenty of fish."

"But I don't understand all the glorious details."

"I haven't worked them out yet. You might help me. In the first place I'm going to double cross Stubener and the betting syndicate. It will be part of the joke. I am going to put Cannam out in the first round. For the first time I shall be really angry when I fight. Poor Tom Cannam, who's as crooked as the rest, will be the chief sacrifice."

"You see, I intend to make a speech in the ring. It's unusual, but it will be a success, for I am going to tell the audience all the inside workings of the game. It's a good game, too, but they're running it on business principles, and that's what spoils it. But there, I'm giving the speech to you instead of at the ring."

"I wish I could be there to hear," she said.

He looked at her and debated.

"I'd like to have you. But it's sure to be a rough time. There is no telling what may happen when I start my program. But I'll come straight to you as soon as it's over. And it will be the last appearance of young Glendon in the ring—in any ring."

"But, dear, you've never made a speech in your life," she objected. "You might fail."

He shook his head positively.

"I'm Irish," he announced, "and what Irishman was there who couldn't speak?"

He paused to laugh merrily.

"Stubener thinks I'm crazy. Says a man can't train on matrimony. A lot he knows about matrimony, or me, or you, or anything except real estate and fixed fights. But I'll show him that night, and poor Tom too. I really feel sorry for Tom."

"My dear abysmal brute is going to behave most abysmally and brutally, I fear," she murmured.

He laughed.

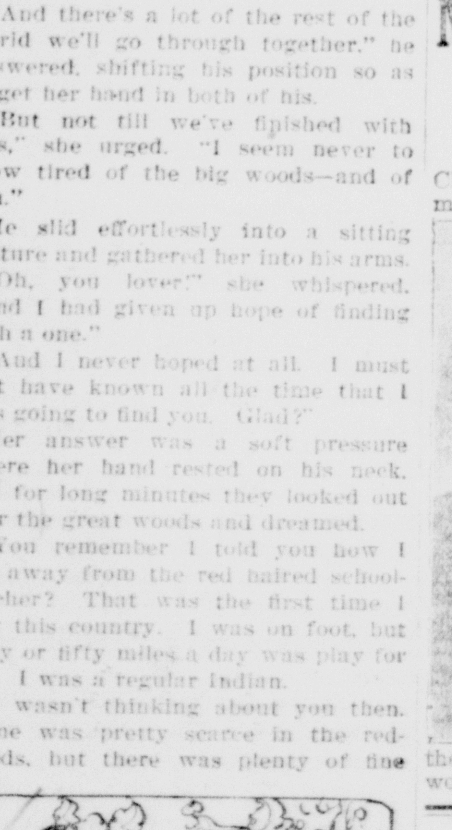

"I'm going to make a noble attempt at it. Positively my last appearance, you know. And then it will be you, YOU. But if you don't want that last appearance say the word."

"Of course I want it, Big Man. I

Made My Life Worth Living

"I feel it my duty to tell others what Chamberlain's Tablets have done for me," writes Mrs. L. Dunlap, of Oak Grove, Mich. "I have suffered with pains in my back and under my shoulder blade for a number of years, also with a poor appetite and constipation. I tried all of the remedies that I heard of and a number of doctors, but got no relief. Finally a friend told me to try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. I got a bottle of them and they soon helped my stomach; by their gentle action my bowels became more regular. Today I feel like praising them to all who suffer as I did for they have cured me and made my life worth living."

"It is more wonderful than you promised."

trout. That was when I camped on these rocks. I didn't dream that some day I'd be back with you—YOU."

"And be a champion of the ring, too," she suggested.

"No; I didn't think about that at all. Dad had always told me I was going to be, and I took it for granted. You see, he was very wise. He was a great man."

"But he didn't see you leaving the ring."

"I don't know. He was so careful in hiding his crookedness from me that I think he feared it. I've told you about the contract with Stubener. Dad put in that clause about crookedness. The first crooked thing my manager did was to break the contract."

"And yet you are going to fight this Tom Cannam. Is it worth while?"

He looked at her quickly.

"Don't you want me to?"

"Dear lover, I want you to do whatever you want."

So she said and to herself, her words still ringing in her ears, she marvelled that she, not least among the stubbornly independent of the breed of Sangster, should utter them.

Yet she knew they were true, and she was glad.

"It will be fun," he said.

MOTHERS OF DELICATE CHILDREN

Should Read the Following Letter—Mrs. Slack's Story About Her Child's Recovery Is Entirely Reliable.

Palmyra, Pa.—"Three years ago my little girl had black measles which left her with a chronic cough and so awfully thin you could count all her ribs, and she coughed so much she had no appetite."

"Nothing we gave her seemed to help her at all until one day Mrs. Neil-ort told me how much good Vinol had done her little girl, so I decided to try it for my little one, and it has done her so much good she is hungry all the time, her cough is gone, she is stouter and more healthy in color and this is the first winter she has been able to play out in the snow, constringing and snow-balling without any ill effects."—Mrs. ALFRED SLACK, Palmyra, Pa.

We know Vinol will build up your little ones and make them healthy, strong and robust, therefore we ask parents of every frail and sickly child in this vicinity to try a bottle of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil.

If we can induce you to try a bottle of Vinol as a body-builder and strength-giver for your child, and you do not find it is all we claim, we will return your money on demand.

W. H. Windrow, druggist, Hondo, Tex.

"One of the things that most worries me," said Mrs. Cunningham, "is that my little girl has a chronic cough and she won't get that needed rest and thread to sew her delicate aprons with."

are usually thin and easily worried, sleep does not refresh and the system gets weaker and weaker.

Scott's Emulsion corrects nervousness by force of nourishment—it feeds the nerve centres by distributing energy and power all over the body.

Don't resort to alcoholic mixtures or drug concoctions.

Get SCOTT'S EMULSION for your nerves—nothing equals it. It compares with it, but insist on the genuine SCOTT'S.

1449 EVERY DRUGGIST HAS IT.

Cold, damp weather is bad for those subject to Rheumatism. It chills the blood and brings on an attack. Use

Ballard's Snow Liniment

It is a Powerful Preventive, as Well as a Speedy Cure

Rub it in on the parts affected whenever the conditions seem to indicate a spell of this painful ailment; it will warm the joints and ward off the trouble. If the disorder has already commenced, the treatment is the same. The liniment helps the blood to penetrate to the seat of pain. The relief is prompt and very satisfying; the aching joints are relieved, the muscles relaxed so that the sufferer feels again the strength and suppleness of youth.

For flesh wounds of all kinds, it is a wonderful remedy. Try it for cuts, burns, bruises, sores, galls, chafed spots, barbed wire cuts, sprains, swellings, frost bites. It cures quickly and completely.

Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per Bottle.

JUDGING AN AUTOMOBILE VALUE

As the automobile industry has progressed, and as some owners have learned the distressing circumstances that usually follow the purchase of an automobile that has no standing from a manufacturing point of view, we sometimes wonder why the average prospective buyer does not give the question of the merit and reputation of an automobile more serious attention before he makes a selection. Ever since the beginning of the automobile business new cars have flashed on the horizon and have very promptly dropped out of sight. The announcements by the manufacturers have always been full of promises and from an advertising point of view many of these cars have made a hit, but they have never accomplished the advertised purposes, and in failing leave the purchaser absolutely helpless when it comes to obtaining repair parts, service, etc.

This should be one of the strongest arguments to your prospects, for, since Buick was put on the market it has naturally grown and profited each year, increasing its production as well as the number of its satisfied owners, and today Buick is recognized as the highest-class motor-car investment you can make.

Below is a list of ninety-seven cars (and there are probably more) that during the last few years were at some time or other very prominently known and widely advertised throughout the country, all of which are, however, at this time "orphans" in the automobile industry, the manufacturers having gone out of business for some of the various reasons given above:

Atlas, Ampex, Anco, American, Acme, Aero, Allen-Kingston, American-Mors, Anchor, Anhut, Brush, Blomstrom, Babcock, Badger, Breeze, Barnes, Benham, Bergdoll, Berkshire, Black Crow, Cutting, Cameron, Columbia, Corbin, Carhartt, Clark-Carter, Cino, Coates-Goshen, Dearborn-Detroit, Demot, Dragon, Detamble, Deluxe, Everett, Elmore, Edwards, Fuller, Fal Car, Firestone-Columbus, Gaeth, Great Western, Great Smith, Holman, Halladay, Havers, Herreshoff, Henry 40, Johnson, Knox, Lion, Lozier, Michigan, Mason, Midland, Marquette, Matheson, Meteor, Metropoli, Middleby, Northern, Nyberg, Ohio, Only, Orient, Palmer-Singer, Pierce-Racine, Pittsburgh-Six, Parry, Pope-Hartsford, Pope-Tribune, Pope-Toledo, Pennsylvania, Petrel, Queen, R. C. ## Madam! Would You Pay 25c for 50c Worth of the Finest Cream?

Because 15,672 druggists and physicians have built laboratories and are manufacturing toilet requisites you can, today, get a big jar of the finest Face Cream in existence containing Peroxide [the original Peroxide Cream] 50c worth for 25c. If it were imported you would pay $1.00 for the same jar.

We're positive you'll agree that the quality of A. D. S. Peroxide Cream [Trademark Peroxide] is better than any 50c or $1.00 Cream—domestic or imported—you ever used, or you can have your money back.

This organization of physicians and chemists was the first to put Peroxide in Cream. We invented it in our laboratories in New York City.

The cream that floats in the air and the dust that settles on your face are dangerous to your complexion. Pimples and blackheads get their start this way. But the user of Peroxide Cream has always protection against dust and pests. The Peroxide liberates oxygen and whitens the skin, keeping away pimples. The skin is made clear, soft and velvety.

The 25c jar is as big as the 50c jar of other Face Cream. At A.D.S. store

THE 34th Legislature has adjourned. The 34th left many things undone, but for wholesome enactments and the absence of useless political wrangles it set a mark far beyond its immediate predecessors.

THE protracted cold weather of March is giving crops a back-set and making farmers late with their work. With the good season in the ground, however, crops will develop rapidly when the weather does get warmer.

Teaching Agriculture in Public Schools

By SAM NEEL, Seguin, Texas

There is much that can be taught in country schools to children and parents living on the farm. Practically agriculture is learned at a very early age, but the actual reason of doing most of the work is unknown. Much that is learned by practical experience is not always according to system, but children generally follow methods pursued by the parents. It is therefore very evident that special knowledge is required so that the child may learn the better method.

Farmers in the past have been judged as their ability in many different ways. Some by how their plowing and planting was done, others by the care given to their stock and others by the neatness of their fields and homesteads. These may be important in a certain measure, but failure or success in farming does not depend upon these details. The rising generation of farm boys must study something else.

The science of farming must be studied. Soil fertility and the principles that govern plant growth, must be studied as well as animal nutrition and breeding. Plant breeding, seed selection and the value and use of fertilizers must be studied. It is impossible to teach the boys to love the farm and its surroundings, to make the farm home more beautiful and attractive, but the true race to success must be wrought out with hard study and labor in the less easy and superficial realm of science.

The best course of study for the young pupil is to teach him to think and to plan his work with system. Hard work was the password of the farm in the past, but at present it is hard thinking and planning that needs teaching.

The larger children are taught physical geography, physiology and nature study, all of which can be planned along the lines of scientific agriculture. Arithmetic can be made to run along farm lines, so that the boy may be able to compute farm problems. Let the teaching and thoughts uppermost in a child's education be directed towards the farm and not towards the city. It is educated farmers that is the need of the present time.

The aim of teaching a country boy ought to be to put him in systematic touch with his surroundings, and to give him fundamental knowledge by which he may interpret the facts of agriculture. The early teaching should not be the accumulating of too many facts or problems as to soil, plants or animals, but just enough to teach the boy how they eat and live, so that the boy may know that not only animals live but plants also, and have needs very much like himself. Young plants in growth, called infant plants, also have their requirements in their early stage of growth very much like infants have. A special study of the life, structure, organisms and functions of certain plants and animals should be made by the pupil, so that he may understand the life of all of them, by the knowledge he may have of the few.

Specimens of all agricultural products should be at hand, for illustration, as also different specimens of soil fertilizers. The soil itself affords abundant opportunities for study—the different kinds of soil, their composition and characteristics; the retention of moisture in the soil and the principles of capillary attraction.

There is much in the teaching of agriculture that appeals to the children on the farm. They all have more or less practical knowledge of everything pertaining to farm life, but what they lack is the knowledge of things with which they come daily in contact. It is thoroughness in teaching agricultural science that is needed.

Scientific farming is nothing more than common-sense farming, simplifying the means to the end.

Nature properly studied will be found to excel in system. There is nothing haphazard in nature, but each and everything has a purpose. The ideas of the past must be exchanged for those of the present. Scientific culture of all departments of art are progressive. Farming, being also an art as well as a science, is or ought to be, progressive. Pupils having been taught

DIED FOR AN IDEA

Remarkable Act of Misguided Hindu Fanatic.

Intended to Show Loyalty to British Rulers by Hanging Head Downward, and Actually Lived Thus for Twelve Days.

This man hanging head downward, when his photograph was taken, was in the best of humors and doing the unusual stunt because he liked it, and because he wished thus to honor the royal visitors from England. He was an East Indian fakir, and gave this remarkable performance in Lahore.

The fealty of the Hindu princes, who are eager to help England in the great struggle with money and men, has caused some surprise among those who have been reading from time to time about the "menacing unrest in India." That this man who cheerfully sacrificed his life in honoring, in his own peculiar fashion, a royal visit may be typical of a great number of faithful subjects of the British empire is indicated by a recent writer.

Other things done for the prince and the princess of Wales—now the king and queen of England—on their visit to India may have been more impressive from a spectacular point of view, but none could have been more sincere than that of this unnamed fakir.

"In an ecstasy of loyalty," writes a correspondent, "he hung himself up by his feet directly he heard that the prince and the princess of Wales were to visit India, the act being designed to prove his gratitude for the honor paid to his country. He intended to remain suspended until the arrival of the royal pair, but succumbed under the self-imposed ordeal at the end of 12 days."

Mouse's Nest in Skull.

The mystery of the cheeping noises in the valley chamber of commerce has been solved. In the display room is a graphic exhibit. There is a skull of an unknown man found on the Colorado desert. Beside it is a stalk of cotton raised in green Imperial valley. The cotton was raised where the skull was found.

For several days queer noises were heard in the room but the cause baffled Secretary Place and other officers. Finally, W. H. Compton, a director and lecturer for the exposition at San Francisco, decided upon a minute search, and in the skull he found a mouse. It had taken some of the cotton and started a nest.

"That man probably did not have rats in the garret, but he certainly has now," commented a man just from Iowa, who was in the room.—El Centro (Cal.) Dispatch to the San Francisco Bulletin.

Restricting Growth of Cotton.

A law has been passed in South Carolina that provides that no planter shall have more than one-third of his cultivated area in cotton, and placing a tax of $25 for each per acre evasion of the law. All sheriffs, district attorneys, and other state and municipal officials are made responsible for the carrying out of this statute. As a result South Carolina is already beginning to diversify her crops, and it is said that her farmers are now sowing wheat and oats in greater quantities than ever before in the state. In some cases the people are not waiting for the cotton crop to be harvested, but have sown their grain between the rows of cotton plants.

International Credits.

The credit system is a part of international as of national trade. Germany won much business in South America by giving long credits. The retailer in South America usually does not receive cash. This credit plan is by no means best, but if our goods are sold to responsible buyers, better that we sell on credit than not to sell at all. Long credits seriously diminish the profits of much American business. Establishment of American banks in South America will help our Pan-American trade.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

When Anybody Finds a Cure He Is Generally Willing To Tell His Neighbor

The willingness of one neighbor to tell another neighbor in a private way of the benefit received from Peruna, explains the popularity of Peruna more than all the advertising that has been done.

The fear of the publicity undoubtedly prevents the majority of such people from writing a testimonial to be used in the newspaper. But in spite of that we are receiving fine testimonials continually.

ANEMIA—Mrs. F. A. DeWitt, Marengo, Ohio, says: "I believe Peruna to be the best tonic. I recommend it for any run-down condition of the system."

SPRING COLDS—Mrs. Rhoda Stufflebeam, Dunch, Iowa: "A spring cold I took settled on my lungs. Coughed. Could not sleep. We feared consumption. Thanks to Peruna, I am a well woman today."

CATARH—Mrs. Sadie Allen, Joseph, Oregon: "My little boy is entirely cured of catarrh of the ears by Peruna. Am thankful for your good advice."

SPRING TONIC—Mrs. Wm. McElbert, Brown Valley, Minn.: "Taken in spring Peruna tones up the system, acts as a tonic. I consider Peruna a whole family medicine chest."

How did they hear of Peruna?

Simply because one neighbor is always willing to tell another one he has found a cure. Neighborly conversation of grateful patients has done more for Peruna than advertising. Much more.

Teaching Agriculture in Public Schools

The art of farming will be only too anxious to put knowledge so acquired to practical test. These then will join can clubs, hog clubs, farmers' institutes, so as to perfect in a more practical way knowledge acquired in the school.

In the teaching of agriculture there may be said to be three general principles involved: The general object, the rational system and the special object. The general object being to produce in the best manner possible certain qualities, or a maximum size in certain parts or organisms of certain plants. This object can only be obtained by the application of certain substances as are known to be indispensable to the development of these parts or organs, or by supplying the conditions necessary to the production of the quality desired.

A rational system should enable us to give to each plant that which it requires for the attainment of its perfect development. The attention of the pupil can be focused on this last statement, as it is the principal cause of bad or unscientific farming.

The special object of agriculture is to obtain an abnormal development of certain parts of plants or certain vegetable matters employed as food for man or animals, or purposes of industry, the means employed varying according to the object desired to obtain. The culture of plants should be proceeded with in the same manner as we do in the care and feeding of animals.

We have said that nature was a good means by which agriculture may be taught. Davy says "nature midst all her changes is continually directing her resources toward the production and multiplication of life. In the wise and grand economy of the whole system, even the agents that appear injurious to the hopes and destructive to the comforts of man, are in fact intimately connected with a more exalted state of his powers and condition. His industry is awakened, his activity kept alive, even by defects of climate and season. By accidents which interfere with his efforts he is made to exert his talents, to look further into futurity, to consider the vegetable kingdom not a secure and unalterable inheritance, spontaneously providing for his wants, but as a doubtful and insecure possession, to be preserved only by labor, and extended and perfected by ingenuity." How applicable is this statement to our present modes of farming, and how clearly it proves and shows our only means in aiding nature to overcome difficulties.

Another good point to bring to the notice of the pupil studying agriculture is the multiplicity of operations continually going on in vegetation at the same time, the variety of different and even opposite substances formed out of the same ingredients and almost on the same spot. Observe the wheat producing its flour, the sorrel its oxalic acid, the beet its sugar, the poppy its opium, from one plant arising the fragrance of the rose and from the other the odor of the garlic. By these differences we notice the discordant nature of chemical substances so uniformly and so regularly produced by different plants, which that soil produced only with the aid of water and atmospheric agencies, astonish and confound us. The order and skill with which everything is conducted are no less surprising. No two operations clash, there is no discord, no irregularity, no disturbance, every object is gained and everything is ready for its intended purpose. Nature and agriculture go hand in hand, yet man with his superior faculties competes with nature in performing that which seems impossible. The feats obtained by scientific culture of plants proves this statement, by that which Luther Burbank, the great agriculturist, horticulturist and naturalist has done. Agriculture and horticulture, being among the most important sciences, should be among the most important themes taught in the curriculum of the school, and there is no doubt but that the common schools can be very helpful in the teaching of agriculture. But it is not, however, nor can it be, by the pursuit of a formal course leading to definite attainments, within certain limits, nor is any text book whatever required for the use of the pupil wishing to acquire the knowledge of agriculture.

The first step in any useful study of agriculture in common schools must be the acquirement of ability to learn from nature direct, with no text book as an interpreter. What can be done in the way of agricultural teaching must be what is comprehended by the pupils of different ages, and which in practice can be imparted to them. Childhood is the time to learn facts, and such facts that are of real interest to them are never forgotten.

Are You Rheumatic—Try Sloan's.

If you want quick and real relief from Rheumatism, do what so many thousand other people are doing—whenever an attack comes on, bathe the sore muscle or joint with Sloan's Liniment. No need to rub it in—just apply the Liniment to the surface. It is wonderfully penetrating. It goes right to the seat of trouble and draws the pain almost immediately. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for 25c of any druggist and have it in the house—against Colds, Sore and Swollen Joints, Lumbago, Sciatica and like ailments. Your money back if not satisfied, but it does give almost instant relief.

Tax Assessors' Notice.

I will be at the following named places on their respective dates for the purpose of taking assessments for the year 1915:

Yancey, March 29, 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Respectfully yours,

L. E. HEATH,

Tax Assessor, Medina County.

Ah! The Invigorating Whiff of The Pine Forest!

How it clears the throat and head of its mucous ailments. It is this spirit of Newness and Vigor from the health-giving Piney Forest brought back by Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. Antiseptic and healing. Buy a bottle to-day. All Druggists, 25c.

Electric Bitters a Spring Tonic.

Of all dangerous crooks the unfaithful lawyer is the most disreputable.

It Always Helps

says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill."

I wish every suffering woman would give

UGH! CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK. DON'T STAY BILIOUS, CONSTIPATED

"Dodson's Liver Tonic" Will Clean Your Sluggish Liver Better Than Calomel and Can Not Salivate.

Calomel makes you sick; you lose a day's work. Calomel is quicksilver and it salivates; calomel injures your liver. If you are bilious; feel lazy, sluggish and all knocked out, if your bowels are constipated and your head aches or stomach is sour, just take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tonic instead of using sickening, salivating calomel. Dodson's Liver Tonic is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your head-ache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and bowels regular. You will feel like working. You'll be cheerful; full of energy, vigor and ambition.

Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic under my personal guarantee that it will clean your sluggish liver better than nasty calomel; it won't make you sick and you can eat anything you want without being salivated. Your druggist guarantees that each spoonful will start your liver, clean your bowels and straighten you up by morning or you get your money back. Children gladly take Dodson's Liver Tonic because it is pleasant tasting and doesn't gripe or cramp or make them sick.

I am selling millions of bottles of Dodson's Liver Tonic to people who have found that this pleasant, vegetable, liver medicine takes the place of dangerous calomel. Buy one bottle on my sound, reliable guarantee. Ask your druggist about me.

The Name Behind the Goods

CASE "25"

Complete $1350-5 Per Cent Discount If You Pay Cash

If We Equipped and Priced as Others do

$1239.75

Of the 30 medium-priced cars—from $1250 to $1500—the CASE costs the least.

This is the only car that comes completely equipped with Extra Tire Casing and Extra Inner Tube on Rim with Cover, Weed Non-Skid Tire Chains and Eight-Day Clock.

On any other car, men have to pay extra for all these features. And these things are absolutely necessary, as you know. These features, with 5 per cent discount if cash, amount to precisely $110.25.

Add this to the price of any other car in this class, and it costs you more than the CASE "25" complete at $1350.

Or deduct it from the $1350 price of the CASE, and this car costs but $1239.75, on their basis of price and equipment.

HIDDEN VALUES

CASE buyers count this low cost an extreme advantage. Yet these cars have never been sold on price.

They are winning men everywhere because of the organic superiority. These are the "unseen values" in the vitals of a car. And you must rely upon a maker's ability to build them right. Also his reputation for embodying them.

YOUR SAFEGUARD

In both of these respects CASE stands, as you surely know, without a peer.

We have won, through more than 70 years, acknowledged leadership as makers of motive power machinery.

So, when it comes to you, as it must, to rely on the name behind some car—Remember that CASE means utmost security.

CASE cars are endowed, besides, with a ready-organized selling force. All over America, and beyond, it handles this car in connection with other products. Hence we save thousands where other makers must spend—in selling. And so we spend in many ways for better material and workmanship. These are ways where others must save.

Call and see this car. Let us show you the ways we spend, for your advantage, the money saved in selling.

A Surprise Party.

A very pleasant surprise party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Graff on the night of March 13, 1915, in honor of Walter Graff's birthday. The evening was spent in playing games and singing. At twelve o'clock luncheon was served, consisting of coffee and cake, which was very much enjoyed by all.

Those in the merry crowd were: Mr. and Mrs. Emil Graff, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bilhartz and children, Mrs. L. Hartung and daughter, Louisa, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graff, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wiemers and daughter, Luella, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Saathoff, Mr. John Lebold, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Musman, Misses Emma Boehle, Sylvia Bilhartz, Olga Schweers, Lena and Minnie Graff, Goldie Bilhartz, Pauline Graff, Messrs. Oscar Moehring, Fritz Moebius, Louis Gerdes, Paul Naegelin, Robert Riff, Willie Weber, Frank Neuman, Henry Aden, Henry J. Boehle, Bennie and Robert Graff, Walter Graff, Eddie and Walter Saathoff, Herman Lindeburg, Frank Graff, Fred Bruecks, Leo Schweers, Robert Hartung, Emil Bohmfalk, Henry Muennink, Henry Martin, Theodore Wiemers, Alfred Boehle, and Aaron Bilhartz.

At two o'clock all departed for their respective homes wishing Mr. Walter many more happy birthdays.

You are hereby commanded that by publication of this Writ for four successive weeks in a newspaper printed in the county of Medina, you give due notice to all persons interested in the Estate of John W. Schulte, deceased, to answer an application filed by Joseph Horn and Mrs. Lina Horn in the County Court of Medina county, on the 3rd day of March, A. D. 1915, for Letters of Administration on said Estate, which will be heard by said Court on the 5th day of April, A. D. 1915, at the Court House of said County, in Hondo, Texas, at which time all persons interested in said Estate may appear and contest said application if they see proper to do so.

Herein Fail Not, but have you before said Court on the first day of the next term thereof, this Writ, with your return thereon, showing how you executed the same.

Witness my hand and official seal, at Hondo, Texas, this 3rd day of March, A. D. 1915.

[L. S.] S. A. JUNGMAN, Clerk County Court, Medina County, Texas.

I Hereby Certify that the above and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the Original Writ now in my hands.

J. F. BADER, Sheriff Medina County.

Paint or Not.

Is a horse worth more or less after feed?

Hay and oats are high today; shall I wait today and feed him tomorrow?

That's how men do about painting their houses and barns and fences. Paint has been high for several years; and so they have waited. Some are still waiting.

Their property drops a trifle a year and the next job of paint creeps up creeps up creeps up; it'll take more paint by a gallon a year; they don't save a cent, and the property goes on suffering.
